

2nd Somalia Investments, Trade, Oil Security Exhibition and Conference, 21-22 July, Laico Regency, Nairobi

Somalia's Private sector has been more resilient than the Public sector which collapse more than 25 years ago, with the defeat of Alshabaab in Somalia and with the forthcoming elections a new Federal Government is expected that might usher in new hope. Normalcy seems to be returning setting grounds for reconstruction and vast amounts of foreign direct investment. Puntland, and Somaliland have been around for more than 18 years with working Governments. Come and listen to the opportunities and challenges that are possible in this major conference. Registration email: info@amsasconsulting.com

Key Topics and Themes include:

- Government Policies, strategies: Growth & Future
- Banking & Insurance (Islamic Banking & Takaful)
- Hydrocarbon Potential of Somalia
- Education - Universities and Colleges needs
- Mining
- Infrastructure & Investment Needs
- Telecommunications, and ICT
- Somalia's Downstream Markets & Development
- Fishing
- Foreign Players In Somalia
- Energy Development & Power needs
- Security
- Political Developments
- Federation, Legal and Commercial Laws developments
- International Aid and Development

The Somali Diaspora send home some $2 Billion Dollars annually for both investments and supporting their people this figure dwarfs all foreign aid combined. Trade and Investments is also expected to grow exponentially after the elections. Federation is also expected to be finalized soon with the possibility of one-man-one vote elections. The Banking sector is controlled by Hawala companies that are very efficient and looking for partnerships with foreign Banks.

On education and human development many colleges and Universities have flourished but is not enough and more than 1 Million Somalis go overseas for further education. Somalia, Sudan and Somalia were considered as the best prospects for oil and gas in sub-saharan Africa in the late 1980's. About 20 years ago Angola and Mozambique were considered as a no go zone area for investments. Today both of these countries are considered as the largest oil and gas producers in Africa. On Mining Commercial deposits of Tin, Tantalum, Iron, and one of the Worlds Largest deposits of Gypsum is available.

The Property sector is also seeing rebirth with the return of the Diaspora Somalis and other business people traveling for business to the many regional states of Somalia. Many Hotels and Apartments are being built and many projects are ongoing while others are on the drawing boards.

The recent oil discoveries in Kenya and Uganda coupled with more gas discoveries offshore in Mozambique and Tanzania are large and world-class, with potential for more to come, including prospects for an oil leg offshore Eastern Africa-Somalia included. These discoveries encourages LNG plants on Somalia, Tanzania and Mozambique and will make the zone akin to the Northwest Shelf in Australia and Qatar but situated on the western edge of the Asian LNG import market and in competition with older supply centers in Southeast Asia and Australasia.
